WE NOMINATE

Robert Rae Spears Jr., 44-year old rector of 130-year old Trinity Episcopal Church, who over the past several weeks -- ever since the dolorous general alarm of February 13 sent the community's volunteer fire companies racing to Trinity Church--has demonstrated beyond doubt that the man of thought and prayer is also a man of action. To Trinity Parish, the second largest congregation within the 168-church Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey, this tough-minded but highly sensitive native of Rochester, N. Y., has given the kind of leadership a Trinity parishioner attributed to one of Spears' predecessors: "lifting us forward by his example in day-to-day living."

Hours before the February fire (the third major conflagration in Trinity's history) had been brought under control, and even while firemen were coping with the peculiar roofing of Trinity's gutted nave, Spears was blueprinting the programs for the "period of austerity" that will extend through the 1964 Lenten Season. In looking to the months ahead, with all services being held in Pierce Hall and All Saints' Chapel, Spears turned back to the Old Testament and came forward with the stirring term, "The Creativity of Crisis," meaning "the process by which the grace of God operates to bring order out of chaos, shed light in darkness and bring His people to new heights of awareness when they are in the depths of despondency."

Guiding a parish whose rate of growth has outstripped the "population boom" in Princeton and environs by some 25 per cent (Trinity in recent years has added four new members for every three newcomers to the Princeton Area), Spears assesses the immediate future in understandable and challenging terms. "We have temporarily lost a building, but," he stresses, "we have not lost the Church . . . Our work, then, is to use this time to discover more clearly what The Church is, and to live our lives as Churchpeople even more fully in the changed circumstances . . . We shall build in new ways our own image of the Church and its life."

Raised in Attica, N. Y., where he was turned to the ministry by friendship with Episcopalian clergymen, this son of a postman-printer was graduated from Hobart with the Class of 1910 and completed "basic training" in General Theological Seminary, New York City. In the spring of 1960, when called here as successor to John Vernon Butler, he was rounding out his sixth year as vicar of the Chapel of the Intercession of Trinity Parish (Broadway at 155th Street, New York), an inter-racial, inter-cultural congregation, seething with the changes generated by new Negro and Puerto Rican residents and the largest non-Roman Catholic body on Northern Manhattan.

By nature and by conviction Spears is a parish priest, concerned with the relationships linking the individual to the Church. If pressed for definitions, he will insist that the parish must be marked by four characteristics: Worship, Work, Unity and Sharing. In maintaining and strengthening a healthy parish, "we must strive to live in such a way that all can describe us: 'As people who are much given to the worship of Almighty God, as people who work at the practice of their faith, as people who are at unity within themselves, as people who freely share what they have'."

For enjoining one and all to "be as faithful in seeking Him in the harsh moments as in the more joyous ones"; for his compelling thoughts on the "Christian Unity of Brotherhood"; for sensing and deeply appreciating the "groundswell of sympathy and understanding" that has engulfed his parish; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

"DEAR EDITOR"

More Letters for Mailbox.

"I take exception" was the general theme of this week's collection of Letters to the Editor. In some cases, the degree of annoyance was somewhat more than mild.

Borough Council was again the primary target, for reasons ranging from its site selection for a new public library to lack of action on a recommendation by the Housing Authority that North Harrison Street acreage be acquired for 50 low-income housing units. John Hite, whose letters drew two replies last week, reiterated his charges that "the disproportionate influence of the University in local governing circles hangs over this community like a cloud" and implied that President Goheen and Mayor Patterson lacked the courage to answer his charges.

Undergraduate behavior at public events sponsored by the University is the subject of another letter to Mailbox. "Ungareed" Princeton students are charged with being "rude, crude, profane and unfair" in their treatment of other spectators.

This week's opinions follow:

Library Site Is Wrong.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Committeeman Maurice Healy displayed excellent judgment and foresight with his stand for the location of the new Princeton Public Library.

"We should plan for 20 years hence," while certainly foresighted, does not begin to warn of more immediate complications.

Within just a few years the personnel from the new, large office buildings to be constructed in this "beehive" area will create traffic congestion equal to the letting out of a popular children's movie at the stroke of 5 p.m. on a working day.

The above I have witnessed when such unfortunate timing has caused total traffic paralysis in the Palmer Square and adjacent areas.

Further site considerations are a must for our Library. It seems incongruous that the tranquil character of a library be enveloped in the hub-bub of our rapidly growing business center.

Hite Attacks "Silence."

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The question before the Princeton community is a moral one. No definition of the authority of the Public Utilities Commission can change this fact; and no tasteless and ungentlemanly attacks on me can change it. This is the question: Why do Robert Goheen and Henry Patterson refuse to explain the circumstances surrounding the sale of the water company stock and the concurrent zoning concessions to the University?

If Dr. Goheen and Mayor Patterson are men of integrity, why are they afraid to speak up? Both gentlemen are surely capable of answering for themselves. In fact, one wonders why the quite articulate Dr. Goheen has suddenly become silent, and why the very able Mr. Patterson is unable to say a word.

Government in a democracy may not operate by the rules of a secret society, nor even by those of a gentlemen's club: its mode is formal, and this formality is directed to the common good. Public servants do not have the privilege of refusing to explain their official behavior.

The attitude in some Princeton political quarters is insidious: that politics is a matter of personal honor, and therefore no action can be questioned without impugning the integrity of a man. If the elected officials of this community are so unsophisticated and sensitive that they cannot bear to be questioned, they should never have run for public office in the first place. This is a town of more than 22,000 persons, not an overgrown college fraternity.

In the minds of many, the disproportionate influence of the University in local governing circles hangs over this community like a cloud and, in effect, vitiates the democratic process. The University demanded, and got, a zoning concession that leaves the much-heralded zoning law a mockery. If a Nassau Street property owner, or some local financial interest, had dared to ask for this concession, they would have been turned down, and no amount of public scolding of the officials would have changed it.

Mayor Patterson, by virtue of his office, is involved in these matters and should resign as mayor. His moral insensitivity to his present position bodes ill for the future of the town and is in startling contrast to the protestations of his probity attested to by his Councilmen. The nagging facts remain.

Student Behavior "Crude."

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Princeton University undergraduates are rude, crude, profane and unfair.

I have lived in the Princeton area for three and a half years and have attended numerous functions that Princeton University offers to the public. These functions have included theatrical events, glee club presentations, special events where well-known singers, comedians, etc. have performed and sports events, including basketball, football and wrestling.

I have been present at these occasions with my husband or with another couple or in a group of 40. No matter how early we arrive it is necessary to cause a scene to claim the reserved seats we had purchased in advance. The undergraduates have their own re-

Round-Up

The "explosion" which brought a number of calls to TOWN TOPICS and police about 9:30 Saturday morning is believed to have been caused by a jet plane breaking the sound barrier . . . no other source for the big bang, which rattled a lot of windows, could be located.

For the first time in a month, there have been no particular developments in the Seward Johnson divorce-raid case, and still no date for the preliminary hearings on any of the 76 charges brought by the participants against each other . . . Harvey D. Blount, the detective who was shot five times when he entered the 75 Cleveland Lane home, is still in Princeton Hospital but may be discharged shortly, thus making initial steps in the complicated court action possible . . . meantime, the Essex Investigating Bureau, which led the raid, has had its license suspended indefinitely by State Police and is expected eventually to be listed among the nation's "business failures."

A three-story building that weighs five million pounds will be moved 300 feet next month when the University's Woodrow Wilson Hall is pushed to a new location on Washington Road . . . for the past three months, a framework of huge steel beams has been laid throughout the ground floor of the building and, once they absorb its weight, it will be pushed along on rollers on a steel track.

"Sir: The Odor of Your Church Is Unappealing"

The Church Mouse at Trinity rose from the ashes to pen a heated letter to the rector, the Rev. Robert R. Spears, Jr., reprinted here from the Trinity Bulletin:

"To the Rector"

"Sir:

Ordinarily I would observe the amenities by prefixing the word 'dear' before the salutation of a letter.

In your case, however, I will not do so, since I do not wish to give even the slight indication that I have an affectionate regard for you.

On the contrary, it is only my Christian upbringing which keeps me from saying that my feelings towards you approximate hatred rather than affection.

On Sunday, February 17, 1963, at all three services conducted in the newly prepared temporary church in Pierce Hall, you said (and I have many witnesses) that the most likely cause of the devastating fire in Trinity Church was that the Church Mouse was smoking in bed.

That is a vile accusation without one word of truth. I am neither a careless smoker nor a frivolous person. Such slander on your part will not go unanswered.

My lawyer (who, incidentally, is presently representing a building who was recently mistreated) will be in touch with you. I have no intention of having any further personal dealings with you and am considering removing my residence to another church. This one stinks anyway.

C. Mouse"

A new, ultra-modern classroom building will arise on the corner of Washington Road and Prospect Avenue, financed by a part of the anonymous $35 million gift made to the University 18 months ago . . . the same funds will underwrite the moving job, estimated to cost between $200,000 and $300,000.

The month just ended was the coldest February since 1936, Weather Bureau records indicate, temperatures averaging six degrees below the normal of 33 . . . it's been a great winter to be in the heating business; only once before (1935-36) since degree days have been measured have December, January and February accumulated upwards of 1,000 apiece.

But despite the extreme cold, which produced several below-zero readings in outlying areas, total snowfall is below normal, and no single storm has exceeded three inches . . . by March 1, a foot and a half of snow has usually fallen on these parts, but the total so far is 16 inches, with February contributing 5½.

A March blizzard, such as other years have produced? Chances are against it, and the long-range forecast indicates steadily milder temperatures . . . as if to prove it, for a 48-hour period beginning Monday, the thermometer did not dip below freezing.

served tickets but prefer to sit elsewhere.

They absolutely refuse to move until a disturbance is caused and if they do decide to extract themselves from our places it is accompanied by raucous comments and profanity. And then they only move over and condescend to allow us to sit next to them under somewhat crowded conditions so we can be "entertained" by their crude remarks throughout the entire evening.

Are we, the public, infringing on the rights of these students? If so, why does the University offer the events to the public?

Is it perhaps that in doing so the University hopes to have a few people at these functions who are well groomed and who wear something besides dungarees, or is it that they want some people there who have manners and know enough not to laugh or jeer at performers or swear at referees, or keep up a constant stream of caustic comments throughout a performance? Are we, the public, invited to attend these functions to enjoy them or purely in hopes that good example might rub off on these men (?)?

With the marvelous educational reputation Princeton University holds, is there no time to practice a few basic rules of fair play? Is there no time to be a gentleman?

If we wish to take advantage of the numerous opportunities offered by the University are we expected to just tolerate this rudeness, abuse and profanity?

Is there no solution?

Council's Actions Attacked.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter I have written to the Mayor and Council:

Most residents of Princeton agree that we need to devote more of our rapidly diminishing space to human needs and less the demands of the automobile. Two recent decisions by the Mayor and Council run absolutely contrary to this basic principle.

On the one hand, the Borough is to spend a considerable sum of money to acquire a parking lot. On the other hand, the Mayor and Council have simply refused to consider a proposal of the Housing Authority to acquire eight acres of land north of the Harrison Street fire house for housing and open space—a proposal which would have cost the Borough nothing.

The Housing Authority recommended that 50 units of housing for the elderly and for persons in the moderate income brackets be erected on four acres of this land and that the remaining four acres be reserved as open space. Princeton needs both the housing and the space badly—missing this opportunity is scarcely a sign of enlightened political leadership. Parking lots and asphalt are poor substitutes for houses and parks.

In rejecting this proposal you are telling elderly people, who have given years of long and faithful service in our schools and our businesses, that there is no place for them in Princeton. The Borough will not lift a finger to help them; when they retire they must move to a distant town. You are telling young people, considering jobs in Princeton, that they can work for us but that they cannot live with us.

We are already losing prospective school teachers who feel, quite rightly, that they should live somewhere near the community whose children they are educating. You are telling people whose industry and ability have raised them from the low to the moderate income brackets that the price of success is to be forced to leave their home town.

The Housing Authority's proposal would not solve all these problems. But if it were accepted it would show that the Borough was willing to start working on one of the most difficult housing situations in the country.

It would also show that the Borough felt some responsibility for people who are essential to the welfare of the community. Common sense and common decency both argue for the Housing Authority's proposal. I hope that the Mayor and Council will reconsider their position.

HATS IN THE RING

As Slates Take Shape. To the Borough Democrats this week went the distinction of being the first to complete their list of candidates for the April primaries and next fall's general election. Shortly thereafter, the identity of others planning to run for office was confirmed, more often by the individuals themselves than through reticent organizational sources.

As indicated here last week Minot C. Morgan, Jr. will run for the mayoralty seat he held in 1946-47. A member of the University administration at that time, he is now general manager of the Institute for Advanced Study.

Council candidates with him will be Prof. Joseph R. Strayer, a University faculty member for 33 years and chairman of the Department of History from 1941-1961, and Joseph P. Baldeagle, a staff member at Firestone Library since his retirement after 35 years in the teaching profession. Mr. Baldeagle is a Sioux Indian born on the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota.

The Democrats will run Nicholas J. Bartolino, Purple Heart veteran who spent 16 months in a German prison camp, for assessor, and Mrs. Wilson Coan for tax collector. Mr. Bartolino is a painting contractor with Morris Mapie & Son; Mrs. Coan has been associated with Educational Testing Service.

The Township Story. In the Township, Democratic candidates for committee will be William M. Sloan, an attorney whose home is at 241 Bayard Lane, and John R. Yost, Jr., a chemical engineer living at 150 Loomis Court. A candidate for tax collector has not yet been named.

Opposing them in November will be Russell Mount, who served for 11 years as a committeeman in West Windsor and now lives at 169 West Galbraith Drive. An applegrower, Mr. Mount is an uncle of John R. Mount, who served on Township Committee until last year.

The other Republican choice is Walter B. Foster, Jr., secretary of the Nassau Savings & Loan Association. Inasmuch as he is currently the municipality's tax collector, another candidate for that position must be found.

The Republican candidate in the Borough to succeed Councilman Ralph D. Hulit is A. Jerome Horton, executive director of the Princeton University Fund. An interim appointee for 12 months, Mr. Hulit will not seek a full term in November.

Mayor Henry S. Patterson and Councilman Ellwood W. Godfrey, who told TOWN TOPICS last week they were probable candidates, have confirmed plans to seek new terms. Edward G. Warren, assessor, and Theodore E. Stratton, tax collector, will also appear on the Republican ballot again.

"HE WEARS TWO HATS" Democrats Say of Patterson. Anticipation that Mayor Patterson's officership in the company which controls Princeton's water supply will play a major part in the forthcoming political campaign was confirmed this week.

Democratic Club President Robert W. van de Velde declared that "a conflict of interests did exist at the time of the sale of the Princeton Water Co. to the Elizabethtown Water Co." His statement adds:

"It continues to exist today because no man can — nor should be asked to — serve the public interest of the town at the same time he is asked to serve the private interests of a public utility doing business with the town and everyone in it."

Mr. van de Velde emphasized, however, that a conflict of interest charge was in no way a personal attack on Mayor Patterson.

"Many of us know Mayor Paterson personally," he said. "Those who do, have no doubt at all of his absolute personal integrity. We want to make it clear that we explicitly dissociate ourselves from the recent public attacks in which the Mayor's honesty was questioned.

"We want to make it equally clear, however, that we contest his position strongly on the ground of a continued conflict of interest, a conflict that helped create the very bad situation which exists in Borough Hall."

"OF COURSE I'LL RUN"

Mayor Patterson Says. "Of course I'm going to run again," Mayor Henry Patterson said at his press conference Tuesday, following a story in last week's TOWN TOPICS that he was "giving it very serious consideration."

"I enjoy being mayor," he said. "There's a lot to be done in the Borough and I enjoy being here while it's getting done."

He cited the selection of a library site and construction of a new library; revision of the Master Plan ("whether to have a macadam center or a business area like the one we have now," he said); realignment of Jackson Street, the 206 by-pass, and the Miss Fine's-Borough Hall property transfer.

In this list of things to be done, he also referred to Borough - Township cooperation. "This must be carried forward to a conclusion, whatever the conclusion might be," he stated.

Mayor Patterson said he thought the term of mayor should be for four years. "It takes a while in the beginning just to learn the mechanics and administrative procedures," he continued, "and before you know it, election is staring you in the face and you tend to put things off."

He added, however, that it's difficult enough to get a man to run for a two-year term and might be impossible to persuade him to run for a four-year stint.

Referring to the way a Council vote frequently crosses party lines—when there are two parties in Council—or shows up a division within the party, Mayor Patterson said he would like to see a fusion ticket in Princeton, if this were legally possible.

APARTMENTS PLANNED

On North Harrison. Matters pertaining to new gasoline stations, Nassau Street parking meters and a Harrison Street housing development confronted the Borough Planning Board at Tuesday's session.

Attorney A. C. Reeves Hicks appeared informally on behalf of a group of investors who plan a housing project along North Harrison Street, below Hamilton Avenue, and including both sides of Spruce Street. The developers, who have an extended option on the eight acres of land, envision 26 single family units and seven two-family units on the lot, or Palmer Square type-apartments comprising 252 units. The plans, which include underground parking for 252 cars, were drawn by Richard J. Chorlton.

Mr. Carrick informed Mr. Hicks that this area has been put into lots of about four dwellings per acre in the revised master plan now under study. "It is not generally known," he added, "but the statistics are that almost 60 percent of the dwelling units in Princeton are now apartments. We are trying to maintain ourselves in proper balance with the person who desires to live in a single family unit—we are trying to hew to the middle of the road."

Dr Wesley F. Craven of 36 Scott Lane and Roger H. McDonough of 270 Spruce Lane appeared to express concern over the traffic problem which might be caused by an additional 252 cars during peak hours. Both said in effect that if the project were reduced to the fewer units (approximating the 10.6 per acre of Stanworth) they would not put forth strong objection.

As the presentation was informal, no action was taken by the board. Mr. Hicks stated that a similar sounding had been taken with the Borough Council.

Chamber Stalled. The Chamber of Commerce survey covering Nassau Street parking meters was put aside, pending an Engineering Department survey of meter use in front of the stores.

Albridge C. Smith, 3d, appearing on behalf of the Chamber, asked that the meters on both sides of Nassau be adjusted to a uniform parking time of one hour. The request was based on 453 ballots returned from a random sampling and on a poll of the Nassau Street merchants.

Borough Engineer Arthur T. Brokaw took issue with the survey, saying that it gave opinion, rather than statistics. The majority of the planners approved his suggestion to install watchers with check sheets at the parking stalls to record the actual length of stay, taking license numbers and tallying meter feeders.

Arthur P. Morgan dissented, commenting that the Chamber results seemed adequate. Alan W. Carrick, the Council representatives abstained from the vote, although he suggested that the Brokaw survey be taken during Easter vacation.

The board voted its approval of the "150-foot Rule" ordinance now before Borough Council. This requires that gasoline stations must be installed at least 150 feet from the nearest boundary of a residential area.

Jersey mud was about to come into its top season—mid-March. After a long, cold winter, the ground will take a lot of thawing, and outer wear a lot of cleaning.

It will be no more than seasonably chill for the next few days, the forecast indicates. Temperatures actually running slightly above average, with rain due about the time the weekend starts.

ENTER "GALILEO"

Next At McCarter. As the third offering in its "Ladders of Ambition" series, McCarter Theatre's resident professional company will present "Galileo" by the contemporary German dramatist, Bertold Brecht, opening this Thursday at the early 7:30 curtain now established as a precedent at McCarter.

This occasion will mark only the second time that the Brecht work has been given professionally in this country. The first occasion was a West Coast production starring Charles Laughton which later moved to New York for a time.

Brecht re-tells the story of the astronomer with irony, reversing the usual concept of Galileo as a great hero. In the Brecht work, we see an astronomer brainwashed by the Inquisition because of his radical notion that the earth is not the center of the universe.

It is not a historical drama in the conventional sense because Brecht has used Galileo's life and time to express his own contemporary ideas. Stephen Porter will direct and Laurence Luckinbill will play the title role.

COCTEAU ET COCTURE

Full Dress For McCarter. Two famous couturiers will star with two famous playwrights when McCarter Theatre presents two famous French plays next Wednesday in a one-day appearance.

The plays are "Orphee" by Cocteau and "L'Apollon de Bellac" by Giradoux. The couturiers are Pierre Cardin and Balenciaga who have designed costumes for both offerings. All will appear on the McCarter stage at a student matinee at 2:30 and an adult performance at 8:30 the same evening.

In the role of Agnes in "L'Apollon de Bellac," Nicole Desurmont will wear a Cardin dress and in the lead role in "Orphee" Bernard Verley will wear a Cardin suit.

With his designs for the coat and gown worn by the figure of Death in "Orphee," Balenciaga makes his theatrical debut. He has also designed the dress worn by Eurydice. Christiane Barry portrays Death and Colette Teissedre is Eurydice.

"CAESAR" ARRIVES

After Matinee Series. Having played "Julius Caesar" on the McCarter stage before what seems like every high school student in the northeastern United States, McCarter Theatre's resident professional company turned to Princeton last Thursday night and gave the first presentation of the Shakespeare work before an adult audience.

"Julius Caesar" will be given again on Sunday, March 24, at 3 and Saturday, March 30, at 8:30 p.m.

It is a thorough, workmanlike offering, which has apparently met with great success in its school presentations, introducing many youngsters to Shakespeare for the first time and showing them how lively those lines can be.

Adult audiences will probably say that they have seen more exciting productions There isn't much imagination here on the McCarter stage with its open sets. Before you leave for the theatre, pick up a copy of the play, read it and imagine how it would look, acted out. When you go to McCarter, you will probably find that everything is just as you thought it would be.

Fine Crowd Work. One of the best things you will see is the skillful way of director Stephen Porter with crowd scenes. With only a dozen Roman citizens at his command, he has managed to convey the shifting, shouting passions of a very sizeable mob of frightened and frightening plebians, and it's only when you stop to count that you realize how much he has done with so few.

But Mr. Porter has had to contend with a more serious handicap than a paucity of Romans. It is a handicap that must have vexed him many times in the course of rehearsal and presentation, and it is a situation which no director, however good, can do much about. We refer to the wide spectrum of acting style represented by the actors in the "Caesar" cast.

On one hand is the natural school that gave us Karl Light's Casca and Laurence Luckinbill's Brutus and on the other, the older more declamatory style, the Shakespearean style, that has given us Gwylum Evans' Cassius and David Hooks' Marc Antony.

It is unsettling to find these two styles stirred up together in the same Shakespearean production. (With another actor, it might not matter.) Eavesdropping while Cassius and Brutus speak, you have the feeling that somehow John Barrymore and Marlon Brando have ended up on the same playbill. This is not to say that one style is better or worse, it is only to say that the disparity keeps "Caesar" from having the cohesiveness that it ought to have. Do we have a slashing, gutty production like the NICOLE DESURMONT is a member of the touring company, Le Treteau de Paris, which will present Giraudoux's "L'Apollon De Bellac" and Cocteau's "Orphee" next Wednesday at the McCarter.

John Gielgud - James Mason, Marlon Brando - Caesar movie, made some years ago, or do we have a more traditional production? The answer is, and it is an uncomfortable answer, a little of both.

Line-Up. Gwyllum Evans, surely the leanest and hungriest of the McCarter company, makes a fine Cassius and shows us once again what a deft and versatile actor he is. ("Fantasticks" and Cassius is quite a range.)

Karl Light makes of Casca a blunt and natural man to whom a modern audience can respond, as the opening night audience did, warmly. He is splendid in the role.

David Hooks does not seem well cast as Antony. His rather formal acting style and his use of make-up that makes him look older than either Brutus or Cassius serve to detract from the picture Shakespeare gies us of a carousing soldier who revels long a-nights and has the dynamic power to swing a mob around his will.

Keith Herrington plays well the kind of Caesar Shakespeare drew for us, not the muscular conqueror but the indifferent swimmer who is deaf in one ear unless somebody mentions a crown.

As Brutus, Laurence Luckinbill lacks the strength needed to project the character of Shakespeare's hero. He has the physical looks and stature for the part and apparently the acting skill (remember his "Caligula," done with the same director?) but he has been allowed to shuffle his lines in a most unfortunate way. Time and again he throws away the key line in a speech, and he not only speaks too rapidly but lowers his voice at times so that he can scarcely be heard in those privileged press seats.

Others in the cast treat their lines in this manner, too, sad to say. High school audiences who have memorized the same speeches probably got along all right, but adult congregations whose cartileges have hardened along with their recollections of Shakespeare will have problems.

WILDE, SHAW, SOPHOCLES

On Reading Program. A program ranging from the Greeks through Shakespeare, Henry James, Bernard Shaw and Oscar Wilde will be presented in recital by Cecelia Hodges when the monologuist appears on Sunday, March 17, in Murray Theatre for the benefit of the Dorothea House Study Center. The program will start at 8 p.m.

Proceeds from the evening of readings will go to the new Study Center established last month in Dorothea House for junior and senior high school students who need a quiet place to study.

For her program of monologues, Miss Hodges has chosscenes from Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest," the "Antigone" of Sophocles and the tea-party scene from Shaw's "Pygmalion."

She will open with two brief humorous monologues by Roslyn Belle, "At The Museum" and "Cocktails, Anyone?" followed by a group of poems, including Gerrard Manly Hopkins "The Leaden Echo and the Golden Echo," a ballad called "Get Up and Bar the Door" and a scene from Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet."

For her concluding work, she will give excerpts from

Cecelia Hodges

James' "Turn of the Screw."

Tickets (at $2 each) may be obtained from Mrs. Peter Putnam, 48 Roper Road. Checks should be made payable to D. D. Putnam.

ZISSMAN FOR MOSTEL

"Rhinoceros" Casting. Lorin Zissman of Griggstown, well-known to Princeton theatregoers from a variety of Community Players' productions, will take the part of Gene in Ionesco's "Rhinoceros," the role made famous on Broadway by Zero Mostel.

Mr. Zisman appeared most recently for the Players in "All The King's Men" when he portrayed the politician, Tina Duffy.

Other "Rhinoceros" cast members are Richard Coen, who will be Berenger, the only member of the company who avoids turning into a rhino, and Susan Lerner, who will portray Daisy. They will be sustained by Holly Hanford, Sylvia Fontijn, Bruce Raymond, Charles Scorzaro, Jolyon Sproules, Robert Scholtz, Ted Nicholson, Greta Childs and Lois Cohen.

"Rhinoceros" will be given on two successive weekends: Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, April 4, 5 and 6 and 11, 12 and 13 in Murray Theatre on the Princeton campus. John Harayda is directing, assisted by Lois Cohen.

"TEAHOUSE" PLANNED

By Periwig Club. The Periwig Club of the Lawrenceville School will present two performances of "The Teahouse of the August Moon" at the Allan P. Kirby Arts Center on Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m.

Rankin Johnson and Nicholas Bancroft will play the leading roles in the comedy about American occupation troops in Okinawa. Bancroft will play Sakini and Johnson will have the role of a conscientious army captain trying to bring American democracy to the Oriental village.

Others in the cast include Mark Mills, Arturo Rivera and Mrs. Marcia Hatch in the role of a geisha girl. Based upon a novel by Vern Sneider, the comedy was originally produced in New York and ran for more than 29 months on Broadway.

Tickets for the Saturday performance may be obtained at the box office between 6:45 and 7:45 Thursday night. No tickets are required for the Friday presentation.

"KARAMAZOV" CAST

To Be Given In April. "The Brothers Karamazov," in a Chapel Dearons presentation, will be given in University Chapel the weekends of April 18-19 and 25-27 with a large cast including townspeople, undergraduates, faculty, and out-of-towners.

Leading roles will be taken by Emery Battis, Georgine Hall, Jill Fremon, Dan Deitch, Reed Armstrong, Harry Weber, Dietrich Forster and Kirsti Pollard. The Aparri Dancers will prepare the authentic Russian dance that will open the program.

PLAYHOUSE and PRINCE

Days of Wine and Roses (now playing) is a dramatic conflict between love of person and love of bottle—and it turns out to be a bitter and frustrating contest.

Screen writer J. P. Miller took his title from the gentle words of poet Ernest Dowson: "They are not long, the days of wine and roses, out of a misty dream our path emerges for a while, then closes within a dream."

Against a backdrop of present-day San Francisco, the terror-ridden story of tangled love emerges. Easy-going, fast-

IT'S NEW To Us

FOR EARLY AMERICANS Today—Plus Yesterday. The difficult art of combining traditional materials and designs with contemporary utility, and the even more difficult art of launching a small, independent business and guiding it to success, have both been achieved by The Furniture Barn, Penns Neck "traffic circle" on Route One.

The Barn began on a very modest scale several years ago. Today, it has grown so large that the workshop rooms have been converted into retail sales rooms and the workshop itself has become a small factory, with quarters of its own in a converted barn in Cranbury.

Here in the shop on Route One you will find designs, materials and workmanship in the American tradition. Working with the strong-grained, deep brown warmth of northeastern pine, Mr. Snyder, the owner of the shop, has turned out tables, benches, giant hutches, cupboards and accessory pieces all in the 18th century manner.

Lines are strong and clean, finishes deep and satiny. For a harvest table, he has taken two-inch stock whose thickness shows up richly when the two long side leaves are down. (This table is 40 inches wide with both leaves up.) For the captains' chairs to go around his tables, Mr. Snyder has used broad, muscular pieces of pine, subtly planed and rounded to make smoothed off corners that show the pine grain to superb advantage.

For an original design, a trestle desk, he has used pine again, ranging five small porcelain knobbed drawers along the back and three larger ones across the front apron for a desk in the early American tradition.

As a departure—and it is a real and wrenching departure for a woodworker—Mr. Snyder is beginning to make his splendid pine tables with wood-grain Formica tops, framed in by pine, these tops will be so wedded to the pine base and frame that the tables will even have the rounded, smoothed down corners that give them such appeal.

The Formica, of course, is where the contemporary utility part comes in, because a Formica top can take the pounding and battering and spilling that is part of life in an American household. Mr. Snyder will continue to make tables with wood tops, if you prefer, but the Formica ones will be the norm.

Smaller accessory pieces are really the favorites at The Furniture Barn. Look at the "spug" table, a square end table with a sloping gallery around three sides, and a single drawer in front. Most useful piece of furniture imaginable. Or consider the cradle to use as a magazine holder, or the long coffee table with little drawers like those in the trestle desk.

You Paint

For young couples with no assets except a new wedding ring, unpainted furniture is the 20th century response to the 19th century orange crate.

Furniture Barn stocks and sells more unpainted furniture than you ever imagined, not only the standard pine bookcase, but things like a solid maple harvest table, a corner cupboard with a pleasing raised-panel door, a charming fireplace bench that could go outdoors on a porch when summer comes, a Boston rocker, a rush-seat ladder back chair.

Moderns who want louvres, traditionalists who want antiqued hardware — both can be accommodated by the variety of style in Furniture Barn's unpainted department.

Where's the brush?

To match these pieces, The Furniture Barn carries Frank S. Harden upholstered furniture: a wing chair, tailored and trig, done at the moment in lipstick red, or a broad-bosomed wing sofa, comfortable as a mother hen, or a man-and-dog chair (bigger than a chair, smaller than a loveseat) —all in perfect harmony with the hand-hewn pine.

ANOTHER KIND OF BARN

The Milk Kind. If you'll wait while we pour a glass of milk from this half-gallon jug, we'll tell you about Green View Farms, a mile and a half out of Hopewell on Greenwood Avenue.

Green View is the only jug milk shop in Mercer County. Here you can buy, by the gallon or the half, homogenized Guernsey milk for 88 cents a gallon, which is a very Grade A price compared to the $1.02 you pay in a supermarket.

The Guernseys, over 100 of them, live right in the Green View barns, furiously producing milk for 3 a.m. and 3 p.m. milking and they are "at home" any time you feel like taking the kids for a jaunt into the country. Tour the barns, examine the cows, converse with them for a bit, show the children how nice it is on a farm when other people do all the work. (That 3 a.m. milking may not be on the visitors' schedule: we'll have to check.)

Aside from milk (skim, whole, chocolate) Green View

CONTRALTO TO SING

Miss Forrester Here. The young Canadian contralto, Maureen Forrester, will sing in McCarter Theatre Monday at 8:30 as the last performer in the current Series I offered by Princeton University Concerts. Standing room tickets will go on sale in the McCarter box-office at 7:30 p.m. the evening of the concert.

Almost unknown in this country until she sang her debut recital in Town Hall in 1956, Miss Forrester has been highly praised by New York critics. She was acclaimed at her debut and again a few months later when she sang with the New York Philharmonic under Bruno Walter.

Known as a true lieder singer, Miss Forrester has often been referred to as "the" interpreter of Mahler. In the spring of 1960, her performances of Mahler's "Das Lied von der Erde" under Bruno Walter with the New York Philharmonic, were highly praised.

For her McCarter appearance, she will open with a group of Spanish songs from the Renaissance and classic periods, followed by Schumann's "Liederkreis," Opus 39. After the intermission, she will sing Poulenc's "Le Travail du Peintre," Britten's "A Charm of Lullabies" Opus 41 and the Brahms "Zigeunerlieder," Opus 103.

Thomas Hilbish

GLEE CLUBS JOIN

For Bach, Vivaldi. Works by Johann Sebastian Bach and Vivaldi will be sung at a joint concert to be given by the Princeton University Glee Club and the Sarah Lawrence College Chorus Sunday at 3:30 in McCarter Theatre.

For the first half of the program, the two groups will join in presenting Bach's "Christ Lag in Todesbanden" ("Christ Lay in the Bonds of Death"). Following intermission, the glee clubs will sing the Vivaldi "Gloria" for mixed chorus, soloists and small orchestra.

Thomas Hilbish, acting conductor for the Princeton Glee Club, will conduct the combined ensembles and the chamber orchestra. Soloists will be Mary Evelyn Bruce who performed as soloist with the Robert Shaw Chorale during the Chorale's recent tour of Russia; Anne Ramus, a graduate of Miss Fine's who is now studying music at Sarah Lawrence, and Barbara Hilbish.

Tickets, at $2.50, $1.75 and $1.25, are now on sale at McCarter Theatre and will also be on sale at the theatre Sunday afternoon before the performance.

RECITAL PLANNED

By Janice Harsanyi, Choir. A joint recital by Janice Harsanyi, soprano, and the Westminster Choir will be given Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Playhouse on the Westminster Choir College Campus. The recital is open to the public without charge.

For her part in the program, Mrs. Harsanyi has chosen songs by Schubert and Grieg as well as songs by two members of the Choir College faculty, Warren Martin and Mathilde McKinney. Mr. Martin will accompany Mrs. Harsanyi, assisted by Roger McKinney, clarinettist.

"WHO ARE YOU TODAY, MRS. ROCKABRAND?" Interest in music at Nassau Street School picked up considerably with the appearance of the teacher, Mrs. Sara Rockabrand, as Mozart's sister. Two of her delighted pupils are Keith Landauer of 50 Aiken Avenue and Jacqueline Rosso of 36 Fisher Street.

The 40-voice touring choir under Robert Rockabrand, assistant conductor, will sing Palestrina's "Exultate Deo," Gesualdo's "Tenebrae factae sunt," Buxtehude's "Das neugebor'ne Kindelein," Debussy's "Dieu! qu'il la fait bon regarder" and excerpts from Vaughn Williams' "Sir John in Love" and Frederick Delius' "Songs of Farewell."

Because the capacity of the Playhouse is limited, tickets must be obtained in advance through the Office of the Vice-President, Westminster Choir College.

MASS IS SCHEDULED

By Amateurs. Cherubini's Requiem Mass will be sung by members of the Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs when they gather Sunday at 5 in the gymnasium of Miss Fine's School.

talking Jack Lemmon sweeps a young, country-bred secretary off her feet.

When he discovers that the girl, played by Lee Remick, does not drink, he cajoles her into trying brandy alexanders. After a whirlwind courtship, they are married and both become alcoholics, plunging headlong toward self-destruction.

Both players handle their roles with a high order of skill. Charles Bickford and Jack Klugman are in supporting parts. Comment: belting the grape.

GARDEN

Yojimbo (now playing) is another legendary tale of a Japanese feudal warrior, written and directed by Akira Kurosawa, who made "Rashomon" and "The Seven Samurai."

"Yojimbo," translated "bodyguard," is an adventure story which involves intriguing characters in unusual events. The hero is a jobless warrior who wanders into a 19th century village and is caught up in its bloody feud.

BOUT WITH THE BOTTLE: Lee Remick and Jack Lemmon star as young lovers who start off as social drinkers and end up alcoholics in "Days of Wine and Roses," now at the Playhouse and the Prince.

While Kurosawa may have intended to make some caustic observations on human greed and hypocrisy, "Yojimbo" is primarily a good story brilliantly told in screen terms. His images are alive with movement and picturesque details. His sense of pacing is flawless, particularly in the scene where the warrior escapes by hiding in a trunk.

The splendid photography and the musical score round out the story in a most effective way. The film has English sub-titles. Comment: art theatre thriller.

has its own heavy or light cream, ice cream in every flavor you can think of including pumpkin, old-fashioned small curd cottage cheese and that other old-fashioned dairy product, tub butter. You buy this unsalted butter the way you would buy bulk ice cream, in scoops of half a pound or a pound. Regular salted butter is here, too, if you like it that way.

Then, there are bottles of fresh orange juice, squeezed in Florida, driven to New Jersey in three days by fast truck, and bottled right here. Juice keeps fresh and unseparated in your refrigerator for at least a month, although nothing has been added, and if you think you've tasted orange juice before, try this. (Lately, it has been in short supply because of weather conditions in Florida, but keep trying. Green View would rather do without than supplement with a lesser brand, which is reassuring.)

Over on the meat side of the little dairy shop are loops of smoked ring baloney, just waiting for a school lunch sandwich, smoked pork butt and pork roll, Canadian bacon and regular bacon, liverwurst so mellow it melts on a buttered piece of bread—all smoked by Hickory Valley Farms in Kunkletown, Pennsylvania, (chosen by Green View because the smokehouses are so clean.)

Kielbossl, that special sausage, pure pork sausages and frankfurters done to the Hickory Valley turn are here, too, and smoked hams and turkeys are available to your order.

Then, when you've eaten that breakfast of fresh orange juice and country eggs (yes, eggs, too), Canadian bacon and tub butter, and a tall, thick glass of milk—why, you can begin to think about the rest of the day with tranquility.

Incidentally, Green View also sells fruit drinks, not only in half-gallon quantities (35 cents) but also in 20 gallon cans with a spout, to be served to large gatherings just like draught beer. Black cherry, orange, grape and a punch mixture are all on the list.

Want to take a friend out the lovely country road that winds north from the bank on Hopewell's main street? Please do, but be sure to take your child with you. Every child who brings in a new customer gets a free ice cream cone with FOUR scoops!

NO CAR WASH

Committee Refuses. For the time being anyway, Township residents with dirty cars will have to go outside the Township to have them washed. Committee unanimously said "no" Monday night to the car-wash variance requested for a piece of Route 206 property by Saverio Mangone.

This is the second time that Committee has refused permission for the car-wash. The first was in April, 1962.

Committee refused to allow the car-wash because such establishments are specifically prohibited throughout the Township by the zoning ordinance. To grant Mr. Mangone his use variance would be, in the words of Township attorney Gordon Griffin, "to encourage public apathy toward zoning."

In his explanation of the denial, Mr. Griffin said the Township's philosophy is that the zoning ordinance is "a rather sacred document." If there is merit in the idea of having a car-wash in the Township, Mr. Griffin continued, then the zoning ordinance should be amended to permit it.

Peter Bacsik, appearing for Mr. Mangone, protested the resolution to no avail and Committee then passed it, asking Committeeman Carl C. Schafer, Jr. to take to the Planning Board a request to study the advisability of amending the zoning ordinance to allow auto laundries.

Committee received a petition signed by 88 residents of the Township who oppose the car-wash.

Country Life. The Township may be growing to urban proportions, but winter brings out its essentially rural nature, and Elmer Grecy of Ridgeview Road sketched out for Committee the ditch-drainage problems in such spots as The Great Road by Tenacre and the curve on Cherry Hill. He suggested an extensive program of ditch clearing and drainage work.

"We agree that it is a problem," said Administrator Joseph R. Nini, "and we've allocated $10,000 for it in the 1963 budget. Last year, we allocated $8,000. We've ordered a special bucket to attach to a tractor as a ditch-widening and clearing tool, and we're going to attack the ditches on a priority basis."

Assessments for the Jefferson-Moore sidewalk were tabled after six householders protested the condition of walks in front of their houses (footprint embedded in wet cement, poor grading, frost heaving).

In an "omnibus resolution," Committee clarified the status of several existing "through" streets, and added three new ones: Terhune-Van Dyke between Snowden and North Harrison; Abernathy and Clover with the "stop" sign at Clover, and Ewing a "yield" street at the Harrison intersection.

FOUR ARE HOSPITALIZED

Following Traffic Accidents. Russell Anderson, 48, Mrs. Howard Schrader, 57, both of Lillie Street, Princeton Junction, and Miss Karen Schmidt, 19, 364 Nassau Street, were admitted to Princeton Hospital for injuries following separate accidents over the weekend.

Mr. Anderson and Mrs. Schrader, his sister, were involved in a two-car accident Sunday evening on the Princeton-Hightstown Road. Both sustained fractured noses and multiple contusions. In addition, Mrs. Schrader received fractures of the ribs. Her husband, Howard, 57, was treated for abrasions of both knees, contusions of the right shoulder and released. They were taken to the hospital by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

According to State Troopers who investigated the accident, Mr. Anderson attempted to make a left turn onto Alexander Road, and was met, virtually head-on, by Mrs. Doris M. Pasciullo, 35, of Haddonfield. He was issued a summons for failing to yield the right of way. Both cars were a total loss, police said.

Mrs. Pasciullo was also admitted to Princeton Hospital for multiple contusions and abrasions, lacerations and possible fracture of the knee. Her condition is satisfactory.

CONTEST ANNOUNCED

For High School Students. An essay contest for high school students on "Peace" will be held this spring under the sponsorship of the group of Princeton residents who are launching the Eleanor Roosevelt Memorial Fund.

Boys and girls enrolled in Princeton High School, Miss Fine's School, Hun School and Princeton Country Day will be eligible to participate. First prize will be $50; second prize, $30, third prize, $20. Essays must be no longer than 500 words and may be concerned with any aspect of peace, either world peace, peace from a religious and philosophical point of view, or peace of mind, according to Richard P. Wang, acting director of the proposed memorial fund. Details may be obtained from the participating schools.

YMCA PLANS DANCE

Honoring St. Patrick. A dance celebrating St. Patrick's Day will be held from 9 p.m. until midnight next Friday at the YMCA. William Cherry, chairman, has announced that the music will be furnished by Aaron Stein and his orchestra. There will be a door prize drawing at 9:30.

This is the second in the current series of adult couples' dances sponsored by the YMCA. Tickets may be obtained through committee members or at the Y.

ARE WE PREJUDICED?

Panel Ponders. The question of prejudice in Princeton was explored on Thursday by a panel of adults and a group of high school students. The answer seemed to be "yes."

Sponsored by the Council of Community Services' Intergroup Relations Committee, the panel incorporated the boys and girls who had attended a summer camp sponsored by the National Council of Christians and Jews, and a team of adults including Thomas Seraydarian, director of guidance at Princeton High, Howard Devaney of the National Council and Mrs. David Saunders, who is active in inter-group work in Princeton.

Mr. Seraydarian said that prejudice put a ceiling on the aspirations of Negro students who sometimes give up before they have started. He told about a Negro boy who was amazed to learn the results of his aptitude tests because, "I never thought I could be good for anything."

He also commented on the paradox that able Negro students are often prepared for jobs only to find that the jobs are not open to Negroes.

Turning to housing, Mrs. Saunders said that six Negro scientists recently employed by Princeton firms, had been unable to buy homes in the open Princeton market. She said that Princeton churches asked to endorse a covenant of open housing failed to show that "great strides" had been made.

Mrs. Saunders said that the proportion of families signing this covenant in various churches was as follows: Unitarian, 40 percent; Society of Friends, 40; Jewish Center, 36; First Presbyterian, 18 and Ethical Culture 100.

Scholarships for seven of the boys and girls attending last summer's camp were provided by the Princeton YWCA, The Friendship Club, the Valley Road P. T. A., the Princeton Pastors Association, Trinity Church, the Girl Scout Council, the Council of Community Services and Mrs. Bernard Barenholtz.

PHYSICIAN INJURED

In Auto Mishap. Dr. Jonathan Howland of 2712 Main Street, Lawrenceville, was listed in good condition this week in Helene Fuld Hospital, Trenton, from injuries suffered in an auto accident Thursday night.

Dr. Howland, a physician and internist at Princeton Hospital, suffered face and scalp cuts requiring 100 stitches, a concussion and bruises when his car crashed into a wooden utility pole on Franklin Corner Road, Trenton. He was returning home after serving as a consultant at the Planned Parenthood Center in Trenton.

BURGLARS HIT AGAIN

In Borough and Township. The rash of burglaries that has plagued police in both the Borough and Township continues. Three more in the Borough and two in the Township have been reported.

William Toto, owner of Gale Cleaners, 43 Witherspoon Street, told Borough police Monday morning that his store had been entered and a combination safe and file cabinet carried away. He reported the safe contained $50 in bills, $10 in half-dollars, $5 in dimes and a bag of pennies. Nothing else was taken.

Early Monday morning, on a routine check, police discovered the front door of the home of John B. Glover, 178 Library Place, had been broken open. Patrolmen Douglas Watson and Ralph Procaccino reported that the house had been ransacked. Two fur pieces from a hall closet and some liquor from a cabinet in the basement are believed to have been taken. The owner was vacationing in the Caribbean at the time of the robbery.

A wall safe was removed from the home of John H. Dillon, 237 Elm Road, some time on Sunday evening. Mr. Dillon reported the safe contained 168 shares of stock, approximately $2600 in government bonds, insurance policies and personal papers but no cash. Entry had been gained by forcing the front door.

Safe Is Recovered. Borough Chief of Police Peter J. McCrohan announced Tuesday that his department had received a call from the Middletown Township police, near Langhorne, Pa., reporting that the Dillon safe had been found there along a roadway. The safe had been pried open and the bonds and stock lay scattered nearby. Chief McCrohan said the thieves had probably

Person To Person

Cary S. Kammler

A friend was talking about the earliest known records of man's use of an alphabet in his writings, and to settle an argument the facts were dug up. They confirmed that the Egyptians were putting alphabetic characters on papyrus with reed and ink more than 4500 years ago. The reed (rush stem) was used as a writing instrument for more than 3000 years, with black ink made from soot. It was not until the 6th century A.D. that the quill supplanted the reed, and a better ink was made from gall-nuts. The quill remained man's writing tool for hundreds of years, until in the late century perfection of steel enabled the making of steel pens. As civilization advanced, the need for written records kept pace. To the point where now all human activity is based upon a maze of records. In business we must keep all kinds of complex records, but we want you to know we do not allow them to make us an impersonal business. We operate on a person to person basis, always trying to serve you the way we would hope you would serve us. Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222.

BAKE TWO HOURS AT 800 DEGREES: When flames gutted the kitchen and dining room of the Dean Mathey home on Pretty Brook Road last Wednesday afternoon, Robert Mooney, first assistant fire chief, reported that intense heat generated by the fire literally baked the entire inside to a toasty brown color. "The molding is so crisp you can punch holes in it with your fist," he said. Faulty wiring of a kitchen refrigerator in the east side of the house is believed to be the cause. Beams from the ceiling directly above it were burned completely away and the entire house was extensively damaged. (Staff Photo) thrown it from their car. Detective Robert McAvenia is investigating all the thefts.

In the Township, Chief James Campbell reported that a private home and the Mail Camera Shop in the Princeton Shopping Center had been entered. Both were reported within one hour of each other Sunday evening.

Thieves forced open the front door of the camera shop which set off an alarm. Before fleeing, however, they took four cameras and a set of lenses valued at $521. The owner, Milton Hersch, was in Atlantic City at the time.

Approximately $200 in cash was taken from a dresser in the home of John Laughlin, 37 Pardee Circle, police said. Though the house had been ransacked, nothing else, apparently, was taken, according to Mr. Laughlin, who had been away for the day. Entry was made by way of an unopened window.

AUCTION PLANNED

By Jewish Center. The Women's Division of the Jewish Center of Princeton will hold its second public auction next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the center.

Among the items offered at the auction will be an indoor children's slide, a pair of pottery casseroles, antiques, furniture, electrical appliances, dishes and glassware. There will also be a refreshment stand provided by the center's youth group.

Miss Susan Gilwood is chairman of the refreshment committee. She is assisted by Robert Cohen, Mark Kasrel, Miss Judith Epstein, Miss Jill Maze, Miss Lynne Goldsmith, Charles Kaufman, Miss Ann Winters, Marc Pokempner, Charles Winthrop, Miss Sally Betzger, Matthew Handelsman, Miss Sondra Bogdonoff and Alan Bernhardt.

APPROVES OPEN SPACE

Funds Granted. The state has agreed to allot "Green Acres" funds to Borough and Township for the purchase of 282 acres of land adjoining Community Gardens on the Cherry Hill side of Route 206. The land is to be used for park and recreation purposes.

Under New Jersey's Green Acres law, Borough and Township acting jointly, may now proceed to acquire the land with the assurance that the state will pay half the land cost.

In addition to this state grant, there may be Federal money available. Both municipalities have filed an application for Federal funds, and if the application is approved, Borough and Township would receive either 20 or 30 percent of the purchase price, depending on whether the grant comes under a rural or urban regional plan.

The Green Acres application, filed last November 13, was the first completely-prepared application from Mercer County and one of the first in the state. Although it is the first parcel of land to be acquired in the Township with state help, it is not the first "Open Space" acreage in the Township. Land in Brookstone in the elbow, or horseshoe, formed by Stony Brook, has been deeded outright in five annual increments by Lawrence Green.

Under the Township's Open Space program, the municipality may acquire land by gift, lease with option to buy, or outright purchase. Depending on the agreement, the Township may have entire right to the land, an easement to use it for certain purposes only, or a limitation on use. Another application for Green Acres funds could be made after July, 1963, according to state law.

Township Committee on Monday night introduced an ordinance to increase from nine to 11 the membership of the Open Space Commission. The two additional members, both ex-officio, would be the Township administrator and one member of Township Committee.

The additional members were requested by James C. Sayen, chairman of the Commission, and his colleagues because of the increasing work load which the Commission expects in the future. The Township hopes gradually to be able to set aside about 2,500 acres of Open Space land.

DINNER SCHEDULED

To Begin $1,600,000 Drive. The Hun School will launch its campaign to raise $1,600,000 for proposed buildings with a dinner on Wednesday. Alumni, parents and friends from the area are welcome to attend.

The proposed expansion will be the largest in the school's history. John Carter, the national co-chairman of the building program, will be the guest speaker at the dinner. Charles K. Agle, the school's architect, will describe the details of the planned construction.

Area leaders of the fund-raising campaign include Norman S. Mackie Jr. and John S. Mount, alumni co-chairmen; William Falcey and LeBaron R. Foster, parents' co-chairmen; and W. Bruce Armstrong, Peter B. Blaichcr, Archibald A. Browne, Alexander K. Buck, Robert A. Edwards, Henry A. Greene, J. Stanley Husid, Paul H. Keffer, Howard R. Lane, James MacKenzie II, Robert D. McCarthy, James W. Samuels, William F. Short Jr., James B. Smith and William J. Walsh.

ARCHITECT BUYS HOUSE

To Preserve History. The "Wynkoop" house at 306 Nassau Street has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Donnelley Erdman, a recent graduate of Erdmna, a recent graduate of the Princeton University School of Architecture, plans to restore the 18th century dwelling and maintain it as a part of Princeton's history.

The sale was negotiated through Edmund Cook and Company, realtors. The house was last sold in 1957 to Dr. and Mrs. Alfred de Grazia, from whom the Erdmans purchased it.

Built in 1791 by a carpenter named Richard Patterson, the house was once the home of Roger Gerard van Polanen, resident minister of the Netherlands to the United States. The van Polanens planted most of the trees and shrubs.

Later in the 19th century, a retired sea captain bought the house, adding the balconies to remind him of his favorite city, Charleston, S. C. Homesick for the sea and the confines of a cabin, he built the third-floor bunk room with its port-hole window, an addition which is still part of the house today.

TO HOLD FASHION SHOW

And Breakfast. The Mary Ellen Assembly, Order of the Rainbow, will hold a fashion show this Saturday at Arnold Constable's store in Trenton.

The program will begin at 8:30 with a continental breakfast. Tickets may be obtained from members or at the door.

PLANNING SESSION SET

By Wellesley Club. A luncheon meeting will be held by the Wellesley Club of Central New Jersey at 12:30 next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Charles P. Healy, 115 Brookstone Drive.

Mrs. James P. Crisfield and Mrs. Gerrish Thurber, co-chairmen of the fourth annual Antiques Show and Sale, will report on plans for the event, which is scheduled for April 2, 3 and 4 at Princeton Country Day School. Mrs. William Stuart, club president, will preside.

GET YOUR EASTER HAT

At The "Hatarama." The Soroptimist Club of Princeton will hold a "Hatarama" from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. next Wednesday at the Princeton Savings and Loan Company building, 19 Chambers Street.

Ladies' hats in all styles and sizes—some with handbags to match—will be sold at one low price. Proceeds of the sale will go to the club's scholarship fund for students at the Princeton Hospital school of practical nursing.

LIBRARY SITE IS TOPIC

Of Two Meetings. The public is invited to attend discussions of the proposed library site next Wednesday at the home of Mrs. John A. Wheeler, 30 Maxwell Lane.

The Friends of the Public Library will show their film strip, "Princeton Past and Present," at 10 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Discussion of the site, the Witherspoon-Wiggins Street parking lot, will follow. Coffee and tea will be served. Interested individuals are asked to notify Mrs. Wheeler, WA 4-4262, that they plan to attend.

ANDERSON IS JAILED

In Lieu of $1000 Bail. Zack Anderson, 36, a participant in a Witherspoon rooming house knife fight two weeks ago, was sent to the Mercer County jail Friday when he failed to raise $1000 bail. He is awaiting action by a grand jury on charges of atrocious assault and battery.

Anderson appeared before Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr., Friday at a preliminary hearing. The other participant in the fight, Willie Webb, 40, is still in Princeton Hospital. Police said he may lose one or more fingers as a result of the fight.

"SOME PROGRESS MADE"

By Housing Committee. Negro families who want to buy or rent a house and home-owners willing to sell their houses on an open-market basis have been brought together with some success by the YWCA's Clearing House.

A report on the activities of the Clearing House was made this week by Mrs. Arthur Link, Public Affairs Chairman for the YWCA. Since mid-October, when the Clearing House was set up, 15 volunteers have made about 100 telephone calls to property-owners who have listed houses for sale or apartments for rent.

From these 100 calls, the volunteers have found 15 sellers willing to list homes on the open market and three landlords willing to rent without discrimination.

Three Negroes have already obtained apartments through the joint efforts of the "Y's" public Affairs Committee and the Princeton Housing Group. Two of these are RCA engineers and one is an educator with Educational Testing Service. Four Negroes are looking for houses to buy and four for houses to rent, Mrs. Link said.

Princeton real estate agents have used the "Y's" records to find out the names of homeowners willing to sell on an open basis. These records are also available to any community groups interested in promoting open housing.

Letters of support for the project have been received from Dr. James McCord, president of Princeton Theological Seminary; Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, director of the Institute for Advanced Study and Dr. Robert Goheen, president of Princeton University.

In addition, the Princeton Pastors Association has passed a resolution commending and supporting the YWCA and the Housing Group in their efforts toward open housing. The Public Affairs Committee is keeping a file of individuals who, as members of various churches, have signed covenants of open- occupancy. Groups represented so far are the Unitarian, First Presbyterian, Jewish Center, Ethical Culture and Friends Meeting.

The clearing house is open from noon to 3 Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. The telephone is WA 4-4825, extension 26

WARNING ISSUED

On Chain Letter Schemes. Postmaster Charles F. Murray has issued a warning that those participating in chain letter frauds will be subject to criminal prosecution. Mr. Murray reported that there has been a renewed of such schemes.

He noted that the United States courts have classified chain letters as both frauds and lotteries. They are considered a lottery, he explained, because the chain may be broken, making it a game of chance.

Furthermore, he said, the system is considered a fraud because it promises substantial reward to all participants without being able to insure payment. Mr. Murray noted that the system is so classified regardless of what form of currency is used, be it cash, bonds or other forms.

Question of the Week

Question: Should teachers be allowed to administer corporal punishment to insolent and unruly pupils?

Where asked: Around town.

Dave Johnson, 20 McCosh Circle, junior, PHS: No, I don't think they should be allowed to strike them because I am a pupil and I don't want to be struck. I think a few of the teachers would take advantage of it. It is the parents' job to control the kids, not the school's. Teachers should not have to be baby sitters.

Chuck Housner, 174 Hickory Court, junior, PHS: I don't honestly think corporal punishment should be used by the teachers, primarily because a teacher might take advantage of it, if it were granted. I firmly believe discipline should be carried out in the home. If a student really gets out of line, he should be thrown out of school.

Mrs. Robert Clausen, Hernrotown Road, housewife: I think the teachers should have control of the children left in their charge; I think the parents should be responsible for the discipline of a child. For the four or five hours a pupil is at school, I think the teacher's responsibility should remain secondary to that of the parents'. If a pupil becomes insolent, I think he should be taken to the principal's office and the parents called in immediately.

Louis Kendall, 514 Prospect Avenue, retired. Definitely, yes. Having spent a few years teaching school, I think it is an excellent idea. I know from experience.

Mrs. Percivel B. Silvester, 39 Maple Street, secretary: No, I don't. I think it should be done at the home.

Mrs. Robert Westover, 38 Phillip Drive, housewife: I think there are very few occasions when this should be necessary. In most schools, I would rule it out; I don't think it should be done. But there might be some isolated schools and school areas where it is almost impossible for the teachers to do anything else but. I don't feel that is true of most school systems, though.

Miss Judy Neese, Amwell Road, elementary teacher: If corporal punishment were permitted, I'm afraid, once in a while, it would be taken advantage of by teachers who get carried away and who might actually harm a child. It used to be the case in New Jersey that you could strike a child, and there were instances where it was overdone. There are times, however, when I think it is a good idea. I know of parents who have told the teacher to hit their children if the teacher feels it is warranted. And there are times, quite frankly, when I feel this is what a child needs and hasn't gotten at home. You don't have to actually strike them. They seem to respond just to grabbing hold of them.

Robert Mason, 18 Dorann Avenue, Episcopal priest: Yes. First of all, I don't see why children should be treated any differently at school than they are at home. Second of all, a teacher has enough trouble trying to educate a pupil and should not have to take time to teach him how to behave. After all, teaching is their primary purpose. I don't think corporal punishment is the solution but it is a short cut.

Mrs. Frederick Seller, 376 Jefferson Road, housewife: No, I think if a pupil is insolent and unruly, the problem can't be solved by corporal punishment. The teacher should try to find out why the child is behaving the way he is and if it is not a simple enough problem to be handled in the classroom then refer the child to the school psychologist.

Frederick Heale, Prospect Apartments, superintendent of Prospect Apartments: Yes, I agree that they should. I think that is where it all starts from. I had it when I was a kid and I don't feel it hurt me any and I don't feel it would hurt the kids of today any either. No indeed!

Mrs. Francis Davison, 69 Moran Avenue, housewife: No, I don't believe in corporal punbe sent home to the parents to ishment. I think a note should correct the child. Also, I think the parents should take the time and go to the school and talk with the principal and the teacher.

Donald Jeronie, Trenton, clerk, Kingston Trap Rock: Yeaaah! I'm a big nut on the fact kids are getting away with too much today and I'd like to see them put in their place. I'd like to see the teacher have a little more control over them and this is one way of doing it. I'd like to see the kids do what the teacher says and not have the teacher doing what the kids say.

Mrs. Charles Housner, 174 Hickory Court, housewife: No, I feel if they do it is kind of hard to know where to stop and this is most important.

Walter B. Foster, 16 Hawthorne Avenue, retired, real estate and insurance: Yes, I've always believed a little bit of corporal punishment helps and goes a long way. Of course, it's got to be administered with prudence. I've seen teachers almost put a student in bed One I remember would get so carried away, he'd reel right up on his toes.

Mrs. Charles Townsend, Moores - Mill - Mt. Rose Road, Hopewell, housewife: Yes, indeed, because I think when pupils are in school, their teachers are in charge of discipline is important, whether at home or in school. I think teachers are perfectly justified in the use of corporal punishment.

Maynard L. Wright, Monmouth Junction, music teacher: Yes, for a teacher who knows how to do it correctly, I feel it is permissable to use it if someone has not been good in school. There are some who would abuse it.

Mrs. Jesse Braddock, Princeton, housewife: To a certain

AT QUEENSTOWN CRAFT

Appealing Exhibit. William Hankinson, whose watercolors and small paintings are now hung at Queenstown Craft Shop, is a professional muralist. His work can be found in many fine hotels, apartments and department stores in this country as well as in England and Ireland.

He works closely with the architects and interior decorators using appropriate murals or his own designed scenic wallpapers. His sense of design and his feeling for architecture are quite apparent in the pictures of this rather casual exhibition.

They illustrate the artist's adaptability to different backgrounds and settings, for he uses various media and styles. One or two actual mural sketches are shown, a few oil paintings and gouaches, but, to our mind, the most pleasing exhibits are some of the watercolors done on his travels abroad; in particular, the ones done in a short range of color.

"The Ponte Vecchio," as the rain clouds roll away down the Arno, is grey and watery with a glint of the emerging sun, typically Florentine. "A Normandy Village" has the sun-baked feel of a cobblestoned street leading up to the dominant church with its lovely spire.

Central Park Delightful. Coming back to our own native and often picturesque country, there is a delightful picture of Central Park with the skyscrapers rising high behind the trees and small figures standing in a gateway to give it scale. With subtle colors, mostly of the warm browns and yellows, be blocks in the scene quite simply, then draws in clear detail a few arches, a piece of grillwork, small characters which suggest much more than you can see. This ability to indicate a setting, then to give atmosphere and meaning to it by the sure rendition of a few features creates the same feeling of delight one experiences when a sudden ray of sunlight surprises a lovely cornice on an old dreary house you've never noticed, and suddenly the whole house comes alive with character.

Two watercolors of young girls bear special attention for this same reason, though this time the artist is describing a mood. Against a vague pattern of blues and browns, he has drawn the graceful figure of a wistful girl.

A younger child in costume brings out the enchantment of make believe. These pictures and others are on exhibition for another two weeks.

"Community Type Show." At the Little Gallery, a small and gay exhibition of illustrations and drawings by Margaret Froschauer is referred to by Miss Milner as a "Community Type Show." This derives from the fact that Miss Froschauer, by profession a teacher of the first grade at the Nassau Street School, also has a gift for illustration which she studied at Pratt Institute. Her subjects are children and their interests with which she is closely concerned, and therefore the pictures hold interest for children and their parents and, for that matter, for anyone who has ever been a child.

The illustrations, in pen and ink and watercolor, are renderings for a book in verse that Miss Froschauer is in the process of writing. The inspiration might well have come from a class project such as shown in "Terrorism." Miss Brown's 2nd Grade," for the hero is an earthworm.

The earthworm is quite a character. He appears to be laughing as he slithers out the back door of his hole while the first robin of spring probes away hopefully at the entrance. A gross and extremely pink old pig is fast asleep under the steady gaze of the same worm. The book illustrations are done in great detail and in cheerful springy colors including an aura of orange which always surrounds the main character.

In the drawings, all pen and inks, you see that the artist is a person who understands and enjoys the individual qualities of children; enjoys portraying them with gaiety and a nice sense of caricature. Every year, the first grade goes on a camping trip and her two pictures, "Nature Walk" and "Night Prowl," are active groupings of little show-offs, eager-beavers, clinging vines and reluctant campers among endless variations found in any classroom.

Bryn Mawr Book Sale Set

Mrs. Oakes Ames of 292 Russell Road has been named chairman of the 32nd annual Bryn Mawr College Benefit Book Sale, set for April 24-26 at the Second Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Gilbert Nicol will assist her.

Committee assignment includes: Mrs. Ernest Lynton and Mrs. John B. Hughes, scheduling; and Mrs. Richard Gillespie, publicity.

Club members to be contacted by donors of new or used books are: Mrs. Edward F. D'Arms of 940 Kingston Road (WA 4-3906); Mrs. Arthur M. Sherwood of 19 Cleveland Lane (WA 1-6724); Mrs. Alan W. Carrick of 260 Prospect Avenue (WA 4-2398), and Mrs. Nicol, 106 Winant Road (WA 1-6074.)

"Marquand Park" is the subject of a lively piece of drawing with every branch of the beloved old climbing tree festooned with active little people swinging, hanging, climbing, daydreaming, or just gleefully working off steam. This is a group of pictures which are fun. You might find your own children, your neighbor's children or you might even remember yourself among these amusing figures. In any case, it could be First Grade, Anywhere, U. S. A.

ART UPSTAIRS

At McCarter. Paintings by Pat Kelley, varying from pure abstracts to small amusing portraits of cats, are now on view at McCarter Theatre in the upstairs gallery.

Mrs. Kelley, a resident of Kendall Park, has been working for the past ten years, although it is only in the past two that she has devoted full time to her paintings. She has had one previous show, in Nashville.

A catalogue of the 24 paintings on view at McCarter is available in the upstairs gallery.

YALE PLAYOFF FRIDAY

And NCAA May Be Next. The fourth Ivy League playoff in which a Princeton basketball team has participated in the last ten years will be staged Friday night at 8 in the Fordham University gymnasium, New York. The first-place deadlock with Yale became a reality Tuesday night when the Elis won a postponed contest from Harvard at Cambridge, 80-76, in overtime.

The Tigers have won only a single contest of the three most recent post-season games which determined the Ivy title. In 1954, they lost to Cornell in Pennsylvania's Palestra, but a year later, they conquered Columbia in the Rutgers gym. In 1959, they were beaten by Dartmouth at New Haven.

How to Reach Fordham Gym

Those driving to Friday's game should cross the George Washington Bridge into the Bronx, turn left onto University Avenue and proceed north to Fordham Road — a right turn. The Fordham University gymnasium is at 181st Street and Fordham Road.

However, the first-place tie it achieved last weekend by defeating Cornell (78-65) and Columbia (64-55) gave the Orange and Black the distinction of completing the regular season on the top rung of the ladder far more often than any other Ivy entry since World War II. The record, including ties, reads:

Princeton 7, Columbia, Dartmouth and Yale 4, Penn 2 and Cornell 1. Neither Harvard or Brown has ever finished first Monday Date Possible. If Princeton wins its eighth league championship outright by defeating Yale on Friday, the Tigers will see action Monday in the Palestra in the first round of the NCAA tournament. The opponent will be St. Joseph's, tall, rugged title-winner in the Middle Atlantic Conference.

As they head toward their date at Fordham, both Princeton and Yale must have common regrets over one game each failed to win during the hectic Ivy season. Each failed to beat the other on its own floor, the Tigers losing here on January 11, 62-61, and the Elis dropping a 61-58 contest at New Haven on February 9.

Tigers Steadier. Since losing to the Bulldogs early in the campaign, Princeton has played a better brand of basketball than its Big Three rival. In fact, Coach Bill van Breda Kolff's quintet has ripped off a winning streak of nine in a row, always managing to take an insurmountable lead in each of these games some time before the final whistle.

In contrast, while the Tigers have been 9-0 since the first of February, Yale has lost twice in ten games, and of its eight victories, eight required overtime periods. Both the Elis' losses were on their own court, to Penn and Princeton on successive nights.

Kaminsky Eli Threat. Best bet to bring victory Yale's way is Rick Kaminsky, a 6-1 junior who will take a 20-point average into the game. Denois Lynch, 5-10 back court man, also hits well from the outside, while the Elis depend on Captain Steve Goulding, 6-8, and 6-6 Dave Schumacher for height.

It was Kaminsky who produced the points that made the difference in both of Yale's overtime victories against Cornell. It could be that Bradley will guard him in Friday's game, but if the Tiger star picks up a couple of quick fouls as he did in man-to-man defense Saturday against Columbia's Neil Farber, a switch will be in order.

Tigers' Bench a Factor. For the first time in many years, Princeton has developed capable substitutes whose insertion in the game has a beneficial effect, particularly when one or more of the starters feels as much pressure as they did against Cornell and Columbia. Tops among the reserves, of course, is Don Roth, the sturdy sophomore who has often come off the bench this season to play well over half the game. Junior Dick Johnston and 6-4 sophomore Don Niemann are others on whom van Breda Kolff has been calling when one of his regulars needs a rest.

The Tigers must, however, get double-figure support from somewhere for Bill Bradley. Last weekend, it came only from Art Hyland, and after hitting for 22 against Cornell, he barely made it with 10 against Columbia.

"I SAW HIM JUST A SECOND AGO . . ." Two Columbia players are putting on the brakes after pursuing Bill Bradley and are still heading directly away from the basket. Bradley, meanwhile, has whirled and is already at the top of his jump shot for two of the 33 points he made as Tigers topped Lions, 64-55. (Tom Miner Photo)

BRADLEY WAS SUPERB

When Tigers Needed It Most. The pressure on Penn, Princeton and Yale last weekend was so great that each of the front-runners had a full share of trouble with teams they normally could handle on their own courts with ease. Because of Bill Bradley's fabulous performances, the Tigers had the least difficulty; because it had no player capable of breaking a game open, Pennsylvania was eliminated from the title race by second-division Columbia.

The big Princeton sophomore stood off a Cornell team, for which Jerry Szachara and Jerry Krumbein both had 14 points in the first half, with a sizzling point-a-minute performance. He collected 20 in the first half to lead the Tigers to a 37-33 advantage and added 19 in the next round to break his own Princeton record in less than 39 minutes of action.

The Tigers broke this one open as soon as the second half started, increasing their four-point margin to 12 and then as much as 17, coasting along without trouble for the final ten minutes. Bradley was 12 for 23 from the floor, a perfect 15 for 15 from the foul line and grabbed 20 rebounds. As a team, the Tigers made their first 23 foul shots and finished the night with 28 out of 31.

It was, however, much tougher going against an upset-minded Columbia quintet which the Tigers had walloped by 30 points earlier this winter in New York. Pressure forced the Orange and Black into all sorts of errors, ranging from sloppy passing to poor shooting (36% in the first half) and constant defensive lapses.

The Lions' captain Jim Cleven, who made just four points at Penn and rarely is in double figures, poured in 23 Saturday night on a variety of jumpers from the foul circle. The tenacious visitors were down by no more than 28-25 at the half and were still within five points (53-48) with six minutes left.

Again it was Bradley who took almost complete charge as he sank 22 points in 19 minutes following the intermission. The Lions lost 6-5 Art Klink with a sprained ankle, Haarlow and Niemann both aided Bradley's scoring with a couple of baskets of their own and the Princeton advantage jumped to 82-48 with two minutes to go. The Tigers were home free.

As could easily be anticipated, it was a record-breaking weekend for Bradley which saw the All-American tie or set five marks:

He broke Princeton's one-season Ivy point record held by Pete Campbell, and improved on two of his own—for a single game and for the overall season—see box. In addition, his 153 free throws surpassed the total of 149 held by Columbia's Chet Forte since 1957. The 15 he made against Cornell ties the Dillon Gym record, while the 21 he made in January at Ithaca is another Ivy mark he holds.

SKATERS TOP CORNELL

To End On High Note. Playing before an unruly capacity crowd of 4,000, Princeton's hockey team defeated Cornell at Ithaca Saturday, 3 to 2. Tiger players had their shirts grabbed and their helmets torn off by fans reaching across the boards.

The victors took an early lead and were never headed as they gained revenge for a 3-1 defeat here in January. Gerry Skoning and Em Hall got Princeton away to a 2-0 lead before the first period ended, Skoning hitting at 5:59 from a scrimmage in front of the cage and Hall ten minutes later on a stuff shot from behind the nets.

Another goal by Skoning in the second period offset the losers' score, sending Princeton into the third period with a 3-1 lead. Cornell narrowed the margin at 17.33 and shortly thereafter, pulled its goalie for a six-man power play.

With 1:16 to go, however, a cross-check put one Red player off the ice and another followed with 47 seconds left, erasing any chance the home team had of drawing even. If last-place Dartmouth defeats Cornell at Hanover this weekend, Princeton will finish in a fourth-place tie with the Ithacans.

SWIMMERS FACE ARMY

In Final Dual Meet. A strong Army swimming team will come to Dillon Pool Saturday at 3:15 to end the dual meet season for Princeton. The Tigers trounced Cornell Saturday, 68-26, and were heavily favored to defeat Columbia in a mid-week meet.

The Eastern Intercollegiates will be held here next week, starting Thursday morning and running through Saturday night. Powerful Yale is favored to replace Princeton as team champion, but the Tigers have a chance of finishing second.

SANNINO CLINCHES TITLE

to YMCA Industrial League. In defeating RCA Astro last week, Sannino A. C. officially clinched the championship in the YMCA Research and Industrial League for the second year in a row. A league playoff will be held next week with the top four teams—Sannino, ETS, RCA Labs and RCA Astro—participating.

The one question mark remaining—who would wind up in sole possession of second place—was to be settled this week when the league's final games were played. Both ETS and RCA Labs were tied for the position with 10-3 records.

Sannino's victory, a 76-42 triumph over Astro, was its 13th straight without a defeat. Dick Cooper and Jack Petrone scored 24 and 21 points to pace Sannino while Pete Wise's 22 points was high for the losers.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON: Johnny Cook is the recipient of the Blackwell Trophy, Princeton's highest hockey award, which his father, Peter Cook, won in 1937. John is on the way toward becoming the Tigers' first three-time All-Ivy player, and, with 21 points, is a solid bet to take individual scoring honors in the league this season.

A hard-fought, 53-48 decision over ETS gained for Labs its tie for second place. Joe Burns, the Labs' leading scorer all season, led the way again with 19 points, offsetting the efforts of Al Meyers and Clarence Gilbert who combined for 29 ETS points. The Labs thus avenged an earlier defeat by ETS to make its victory all the sweeter.

McGraw Hill upended Food Machinery & Chemical, 64-35, and Post Office topped Princeton Hospital, 45-22, in action among the second division teams. Skeet Muse tallied 19 points for McGraw Hill to lead both teams in scoring. Hospital's defeat was its 12th in 13 outings.

THORNE'S WINS TITLE

In Hamilton Twp. League

The Thorne Pharmacy girls basketball team, the only Princeton entry in the Hamilton Township League, won the championship last week by defeating St. Francis in the final game of the 12-week season. The victory enabled Thorne's to finish a half-game ahead of the runner-up All Americans.

The game ended abruptly in the third quarter when two St. Francis girls and one Thorne player were ejected for unnecessary roughness. The St. Francis coach thereupon withdrew her team and conceded victory to Thorne's, which was leading, 33-15, at the time. Pat Hibbs and Janet Woolvin paced Thorne's with 14 and 12 points. All league games were played in the Hamilton High West gymnasium.

The Thorne squad was less fortunate in the Hudson Valley Girl's Tournament held Saturday and Sunday in Poughkeepsie, N. Y. It fell, 40-21, before the Sterling Coeds from northern New Jersey, tourney winners last year and runners-up this year.

Thorne's did not return empty-handed, however, as Janet Woolvin won the foul shooting contest by sinking 12 in a row without a miss. More than 50 girls from all teams participated in this event.

BILLY HILL
Hockey Goalie

A good pitcher, working in front of a sieve-like defense, sometimes loses his reputation when the grounders that should have been outs skip by for base hits. But the ability of a hockey goalie who could use more help than his defense provides is easier to judge: if he's good, his work in the cage shines like a spotlight, even in defeat.

That's the story of Billy Hill, who began his varsity career unexpectedly against powerful Harvard when Barry Van Gerbig was injured during warm-up and went on in the next two seasons to exhibit some of the finest net-minding ever seen in Baker Rink. They thought so highly of him as a player and as a man that they gave him the Blackwell Cup at the end of his junior year—an honor rarely duplicated in Princeton hockey history.

There were a number of reasons why a Tiger team that had 15 of its first 17 games had the wherewithal to win four of its last six. One of the biggest was Hill's constantly inspiring work in the goal: his teammates knew that if they gave him the makings of victory, he was the one-man defense that would make it stick.

Best example was the Yale game on February 13: they gave Billy Hill one goal midway through the first period, and he made it stand up for a 1-0 shutout that knocked the Elis out of the Ivy race. Of the last six contests on the Princeton schedule, the Tigers rallied from a dismal season to take four, winning Ivy victories from Yale, Dartmouth and Cornell, and losing only to champion Harvard.

Hill first went on the ice at the age of 5 in his native Canada, and became a goalie "in the first game I played because I couldn't skate very well. In fact, between periods, they had to push me from one goal to the other."

Almost without fail, he has kicked out far more shots in each game than the opposition netminder. Sometimes the margin is thin (such as 42-34 at Ithaca on Saturday), but occasionally it runs to 55-9, as it did at Cambridge on February 16. And when they tote up the figures for the current Ivy season, chances are that Hill will lead all the rest in total saves—as he did in 1962.

Billy Hill is the kind of guy who comes back to the ice to finish a game, as he did in overtime against Dartmouth, with four stitches holding his scalp together. He's the kind of guy who skates over to the bench and suggests to Coach Norm Wood that Duke Sloan, also a senior, be given a chance to play the last few minutes of the last game on home ice. He's the kind of guy they'll miss hard next season, and for years thereafter.

SOUTH RIVER IS FIRST

Will PHS Meet a Second?

"What can I say? I hope we can come out with the first one. We'll be working on it all week, that's all I can say." Princeton High basketball coach Tony Borzok was commenting on what he felt the Little Tigers' chances would be against South River, their opening-round opponent in the NJSIAA tournament.

PHS and South River will clash Friday evening at 8 at the Freehold High School court. Originally, the Blue and White was scheduled to play at 7, as the first half of a double bill, but the second contest, Neptune vs. Madison Township, was moved to the Sayreville gymnasium. There should be plenty of tickets available at the door, Borzok reported.

Other than working on a "little zone to add to what we have on defense" Borzok plans nothing new for the South River encounter. There will be no scrimmages with other teams. The team had Wednesday off after workouts on Monday and Tuesday and will work out lightly on Thursday in game uniforms. The spirit of the club, Borzok reported, is "good, good."

Eight teams will compete for honors in the Central Jersey Group 3 division of which PHS is a member. In addition to the PHS-South River match, Watchung Hill and Somerville, Sayreville and South Plainfield and Neptune and Madison Township are paired in opening-round matches. If PHS gets by South River, it will meet the winner of the Watchung Hill-Somerville contest.

Compiles 14-4 Record. Both PHS and South River ended regular season play on Friday. In a typical PHS contest in which defense is stressed over offense, the Little Tigers defeated Pennington High School for the second time this season here Friday evening, 40-30.

The victory left the Blue and White with a fine 14-4 record for regular season play. South River finished with virtually the same performance, 14-3, and the closeness of the two records would indicate the two schools are evenly matched. Combining its 1962 record, PHS has won 30 of its last 37 contests.

As in most Princeton contests this year, Pennington gave Borzok some cause for alarm before the final buzzer. "They were really bombing away in the first half and they gave us a good scare," Borzok reported. PHS led by one point at the end of the first period and by four, 26-22, at the half.

Borzok attributed a tactical change to turning the outcome of the contest in Princeton's favor. Dave Hill was assigned to guard Pennington's high-scoring Ken Case and thereby free captain Hank Schmidt to direct the Little Tiger attack. So successful was this gambit that the visiting Bulldogs could score only four points in each of the final two stanzas.

PRINCETON HIGH LEADERS: Hank Schmidt is captain and field general and Tony Borzok, coach, of the Princeton High School basketball team which will meet South River Friday evening at 8 at Freehold in the opening round of play for PHS in Central Jersey Group 3 NJSIAA tourney competition.

PHS, each making 14 points. Schmidt added eight as the trio combined for all but four of the Blue and White points. In addition, Kowalski played a tremendous game under the boards, pulling down 24 big rebounds to match his season's high in that department. Jimmy Case hit for four long jumpers in the second period to keep PHS in contention.

Final statistics indicate that six players— Schmidt, Kowalski, Hill, Larry Madden, Dave Hill, and Tom Waters—scored all but 11 of the 908 points tallied by the Little Tigers during the season. Schmidt led all players with 241 points and a 13.4 average. Behind him were Kowalski, 200, 11.1 average, and Case, 175, 9.7.

HUN ENDS WITH VICTORY

Three Starters To Return. The end of an uneven season in which it won five and lost nine came Thursday for the Hun School basketball team, which went out in grand style by posting a one-point victory over George School in overtime. The final score was 70-69.

The Penn Jersey League victory, Hun's second over George School this season, left Hun with a 5-7 league record. The game was played at the George School gymnasium in Newtown, Pa.

Fittingly, the high scorers for Hun were co-captain Alex Langel and Richie Patt, the only members of the starting Red and Black five who were playing their last game. Each scored 18 points. They were followed by Scott Page with 17. Together, this trio has accounted for the bulk of all Hun scoring this winter.

It comes as no surprise then that Hun coach Bob Simpson sees "finding some height" as the biggest problem for 1964. This was Simpson's first year as coach and for the personable Seminary student, scheduled to graduate this June, it may be his last. And it may not.

Simpson reported that Hun officials have asked him to join the school staff. "I have not made any final decision," Simpson said. "But," he added, "I just may be back next year."

LARRIES WIN TITLE

In State Basketball. The Lawrenceville School basketball team completed a 13-3 season last week by taking the Group Four championship in the New Jersey Independent School's annual tournament.

Edging past favored St. Benedict's of Newark in the opening round by a 55-51 margin, the Larries had no trouble on Wednesday disposing of Pingry of Elizabeth, 77-55, in the championship game. Mark Haley was the high man for the Larries in the tournament with a total of 33 points.

Haley paced the attack against Pingry along with Bob Flynn, with each man tallying 21 points. Bob Moore outscored Haley, 16-12, in the St. Benedict's game.

Fourteen of Moore's total came in the second half against the Gray Bees when the Red and Black battled back from a seven-point halftime deficit. Scott King, subbing for Haley, who was removed in the second half because of foul trouble, chipped in eight points and valuable assistance under the boards.

In the championship game, the Larries, after leading by 15-12 at the end of the first quarter, moved to a 37-21 halftime lead and were never in trouble in the second half. Bobby Ryan, who didn't see action in the first game, accounted for 12 points, the high of his short career.

BOWLING NOTES

Sportsmen No. 2 Breaks Tie. Sportsmen Number 2, in a three-way tie for third place the week before, swept three games in the "B" League last week to take sole possession of first place with a 28-point total. Tied for second place, two points off the pace, are Maul Electric, Jugtown and Campus Taxi.

The high point of league play was George Drummood's 602 series. Drummond, who normally averages 145 per game, bowled contests of 231, 180 and 191 for the top set of 602. Tony Tamasi edged Drummond for single-game honors with a 233 effort. Other 200-plus games: Sam Nini, 223; Bill Bathie, 204 and 200; Bob Sculerati, 208; Tamasi, 200; Harry Kahay, Horward McWhorter, Joe Roberts and Fred Procaccini, 203 each; and Bill Pezelli, 202.

In "A" League competition, Community Liquor took two of three games and maintained its lead, a 14-12 edge, over Knights of Columbus. Aversano Construction, Decker's Dairy and Grover Lumber are tied for third place with ten points apiece.

Val Ranallo had the top individual effort, a 210 game. Sheldon Zabel and Hal Frazee each rolled 202 contests and Bill Kiefer had a 200.

Joe Trani bowled a 181-225-245—651 series but still remained in fourth place seven games behind league-leading Joe Baldino in Individual Classic action. Mike Basile, with a 42-21 record, dropped to second place, a game behind Baldino and 3½ in front of Gudio Zinetti.

Sixth-place Mike Zeccola was second in the scoring categories with a 232-211-203—646 set. Others to surpass the 200 mark were Bill Bathie, 206; Joe Ruberto, 208; and Bill Penelli, 219.

The Reformers maintained their four-point lead in the industrial League, winning one of three contests for a total of 16 points. Tied for second place were the Princeton Elks, the Crescents and Para Lab.

Val Ranallo led the individual scorers with a 234 game. He was followed by Jerry Perpetua, 204; Milton Shinn and

BUSINESS In Princeton

IT'S BEEN 70 YEARS

First National Celebrates. In March, 1893, two days after Grover Cleveland was inaugurated as president of the United States for the second time, the First National Bank of Princeton received its charter from the comptroller of the currency of the United States.

The bank opened for business on March 13 of that year in the McGinnes building on Nassau Street opposite the First Presbyterian Church, where Palmer Square is now. In the single, crude room, an unpainted partition divided the small safe in the rear from the front "office" where the long, slanting desk served for receiving deposits and cashing checks.

Catering to people of modest means in Princeton and the surrounding area, the bank grew until it had $40,000 in deposits at the end of the first year. During this first year—in fact, only two months after it opened—the bank bought the building at the corner of Nassau and Witherspoon and occupied it until 1901.

In that year, problems of growth became so pressing that the directors decided to consider a new building. A newspaper story from that day announced that "The building will be a modern skyscraper and will be equipped with an electric elevator. The first floor will be used entirely for banking space, the second floor for business offices and the remaining upper floors to be used as a dormitory for college students."

Accordingly, half of the present structure was built, the remaining half in 1916.

Deposits Grow. When the new building was finished in 1902, the bank had more than 1,000 depositors and deposits exceeding $300,000. By 1912, the business had more than doubled, with 2,600 depositors and deposits exceeding $760,000.

After World War I, the directors bought more land behind the bank to meet the increased demands of growth.

During the depression years, the bank suffered heavy losses but still maintained an annual dividend of 10 percent on capital stock. This dividend has been in effect since 1912, with additional dividends in more recent years.

In the 1950's, First National began to consider even greater expansion. The staff was attempting to operate a $40 million bank with a money vault built for a $2 million bank!

The directors decided to expand geographically, and in 1957, opened a new branch in West Windsor (Washington Road, near Princeton Junction) providing a drive-in teller window and plenty of parking space. Last December, a second branch was opened at 370 Nassau. Just east of Harrison and today, the directors are considering plans for renovating and enlarging the Nassau and Witherspoon office.

Over the years, many Princeton residents served on the Board of Directors, most notably Joseph S. Hoff who was a member of the board from 1906 until his death in 1960 — a record number of years for a board member. In later years, he was chairman.

Founders of the bank were George O. Vanderbilt, Albert D. Cook and Albert S. Leigh. Mr. Leigh was the first president of the First National and served until his death in 1922.

OFFICE OPENED

By McGraw-Hill Company. The McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. opened its new $6,000,000 office buildings in Hightstown last week.

A dedication ceremony, attended by Gov. Hughes and some 200 civic, business and educational leaders, was held on Thursday and an employee open house took place on Sunday. The Thursday ceremony was also attended by the office's 700 employees.

There will be 1,400 men and women working at the plant by the end of 1983, Donald G. McGraw, president of the company, said. Mr. McGraw explained that the Hightstown location had been chosen primarily because of the available personnel.

"They are fine workers," he said, "capable, ambitious and quick to learn—just the kind of people we want working for us." The location was also selected, he said, for its proximity to the main New York office and the availability of adequate land.

With more than 230,000 square feet of floor space in use in the Hightstown office, the company plans to expand its facilities as the firm grows, Mr. McGraw said. Founded in 1888, the company maintains more than 165 offices around the world with 1962 sales exceeding $157 million.

Norm Luck, 203 each; Mike Kopliner and Dick Edwards, 191 each; and Carlo Perantoni, 190.

In the Women's Industrial League, Jefferson Plumbing took three straight and moved into a tie for the lead with the English Shop, each with a total of 16 points. Lillian Burrough took scoring honors with a 170 mark. Bey Frazee, Rose Zinetti and Ann Hibbard tied for second place with 167 apiece.

Pee-Wees Win in Hockey

Princeton's youngest generation of hockey players split with their Belmont Hill, Mass., counterparts in Baker Rink Saturday, the Pee-Wees winning, 4-0, and the Bantams going down to a 2-1 defeat.

Fred Erdman, who stuck to his position like a postage stamp, turned the bat trick for the Pee-Wees with three goals. Dave Battle getting the fourth. Matt Young and Pete Sampson shared the shutout as goalies. Whit Raymond was credited with the Bantams' lone goal.

League playoffs will be held Saturday, with the finals scheduled for the afternoon. There is no admission charge.

In the Tri-County Firemen's League, Princeton Number 1 lost two of three games and had its lead narrowed to eight points over Mercer Number 3 and the Princeton Junction volunteers, each with 32 points.

Bill Davall registered the high single game with a 218 performance. Others to clear 200 were Ken Luck, 213; Mike Kopliner, Walt Coan and Bill Boyer, 200 each.

SANNINO IN FINALS

Of March of Dimes Tourney. Sannino A. C. will meet Burry Biscuit of Elizabeth Thursday evening at 8:15 at the Dunellen High School court for the championship of the Dunellen Gold Medal March of Dimes basketball tournament. The powerful Burry team is the defending champion.

To reach the finals, Sannino defeated the Golday Electric team of Dunellen last Thursday at Dunellen, 79-68. The first half was closely fought, with Golday maintaining a slight edge over the favored Sannino quintet throughout. At the halftime break, Sannino trailed 38-33.

Midway in the third period Golday began to yield to the relentless defensive play of Sannino's Carl Belz, Nate Bruno and Larry Ivan. In this quarter, Golday was outscored 22-13, and when Sannino continued to force the play in the final period, taking full advantage of its superior bench, victory was assured.

Former All-American Wally Mischler led Sannino in scoring with 23 points. Larry Ivan, former standout for the Trenton Colonials, backed Mischler up with 20 points. They were the only two to hit double figures for Sannino.

At the Princeton High School court earlier last week, Sannino defeated a strong Mt. Carmel team from Jersey City for its 22nd victory of the year in 24 contests. The score was 81-73.

Again the Princetonians had to come from behind, trailing 43-40 at the half. But Tom Perks paced Sannino to a third-quarter rally when he hit on four consecutive shots to send his team ahead by five. Belz and Mischler combined for 14 points in the final period to preserve the win.

FLYING FISH QUALIFY

For Y Championships. The boys and girls teams of the Princeton YMCA Flying Fish Clubs each placed in three swimming events at the Y Sectional Championships held at Montclair and Somerville. Those placing will compete in the Y Area Championships against swimmers from New Jersey, Washington, D. C. Delaware and Maryland.

In AAU diving competition held at Westfield, Leslie Bush won the New Jersey Senior Women Three-Meter event with Jacqui Linder placing third. Girls who will compete in the area championships are Jill Agadjanian, Chris Mank, Michele Stoddard and Sally Brecht.

Boys who will participate in the meet are Kevin Noonan, Winston White, Bob James and Hallett Johnson.

BRAMWELL TWO FOR TWO

Wins Second Ski Title. Jerry Bramwell Jr., a senior at Princeton High School, won the New Jersey State Junior ski championship Saturday at Highmount, N. Y., in the Catskill resort area. Jerry represented the Plainfield Ski Club.

Last month, he won the Pennsylvania Junior Ski championship held at Ligonier. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bramwell, 77 Bayard Lane.

Question Of The Week

degree, absolutely. I don't believe in severe punishment but I feel that teachers are intelligent enough to administer what they feel is the proper punishment. I think they know what is best to discipline a child and would not abuse their authority.

Dory Teipel, 29 Vandeventer Avenue, eighth grader, Witherspoon School: No, I don't think it is right. They are only teachers and they would take advantage of it.

Polly Smock, Middlebush, eighth-grader, Witherspoon School: No, because I think they could handle punishment in a different way. This way, the kids would just resent the teacher. A better way would be to administer punishment in such a way that the student will learn a lesson.

Richard Fink, 55 Patton Avenue, sixth-grader, Witherspoon School: No, I would not want to go to a school where they could do that. In St. Paul's they can. In some schools up in northern New Jersey, I've seen some of the things that can happen.

CAST YOUR VOTE NOW

For Princeton, 1983. Five workshops to learn residents' opinions on creeping urbanization will be sponsored in April by the League of Women Voters at the request of the Regional Plan Association. Mrs. C. Harry Kahn of 20 Linden Lane, regional planning director for the League, is co-ordinating the study.

According to C. McKim Norton of 87 Lafayette Road, executive vice-president of RPA, the association "seeks preferences about the places we live, work, shop and play, how far apart these places should be, and how we get between them."

The PRA estimates that in 1985 an additional six million people will live in the communities around New York City. The 33-year-old, privately supported, civic association has spent five years and a million dollars projecting what is likely to happen over the next generation.

The results of its past research and planning recommendations are evident in the parkway-expressway network of the New York environs, the four major airports, locations of the tunnels and bridges built since 1929, the regional parks and Lincoln Center.

In seeking citizens' advice, some 500 to 1000 study groups will gather at 8:30 p.m. in the three-state area on April 2, 16, 23 and 30 and May 7 to watch a half-hour TV series on Channel 11, "Goals for the Region," moderated by Dr. Mason W. Gross, president of Rutgers. A discussion program follows to consider the hopes and needs to be met in the next 25 years. Participants will fill out questionnaires, which will be analyzed by social scientists and the RPA will seek to have the results implemented.

Interested individuals and organizations are invited to contact Mrs. Kahn. Preliminary reading material will be distributed by March 15.

UNITS TO MEET

For League Members. The peacekeeping and financial obligations of the United Nations will be considered at unit meetings of the League of Women Voters to be held next Tuesday and Wednesday. Mrs. Stanley Pilshaw will serve as overall chairman.

Tuesday units will meet as follows: Riverside, 8:15 p.m., 28 Longview Drive, Mrs. Marvin Soffen, chairman; Littlebrook-Overbrook, 8:15 p.m., 54 Rollingmead, Mrs. Parker Haydeo; West Windsor, 8:15, Cranbury Road, Grovers Mill, Mrs. Gerry Kidd and Mrs. Hugh Vaughan.

Wednesday units: Daytime, 10 a.m., 47 Westcott Road, Mrs. Seward Hillmer; Lawrence, 12:45 p.m., 12 Darrah Lane East, Mrs. John Williamson; Central, 8:15 p.m., 46 Park Place, Mrs. Oakes Ames; Stanworth-Mt. Lucas, 8:15 p.m., 137 Loomis Court, Mrs. Jon Baumonk.

Juvenile delinquency will be discussed on the League's radio program, "Viewpoint" scheduled for this Sunday at 4:35 p.m. over WITM. Mrs. Rowan Boone and the Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson will speak and Mrs. Cary Peebles will moderate.

5-MILE HIKE PLANNED

By Scout Troop 88. Scout Troop 88 of the Methodist Church will leave on a five-mile hike from the church Saturday morning at 9. The hike is in preparation for a longer hike for the "Scouting 50-Mile Hike Award," in keeping with the national physical fitness plan.

Troop 88 meets every Saturday morning at 9 at the church and all boys 11 through 16 are welcome. William Breese is the scoutmaster; Harvey Hook, assistant scoutmaster; and George Kerner, committeeman.

The troop's newest member is Richard Keizer. He was inducted into the troop Saturday as a tenderfoot.

MS GROUP TO MEET

Election Planned. The Central New Jersey Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society will hold its annual meeting next Wednesday at Princeton High School beginning at 8 p.m.

The chapter's annual report will be presented at the meeting in addition to the holding of an election for 1963 directors. Anyone Can Build a House . . . But Not Everyone Builds this Kitchen Into It!

Natural birch cabinets and formica counter-top form the U-shaped work area. Balancing the refrigerator space is the built-in Caloric wall oven with the Caloric gas counter-top range along side. The sink has a window with a view to the street, a Frigidaire disposer and a light directly over it. Incidentally, three bedrooms, two baths, plus much more make this house a buy at $35,750.

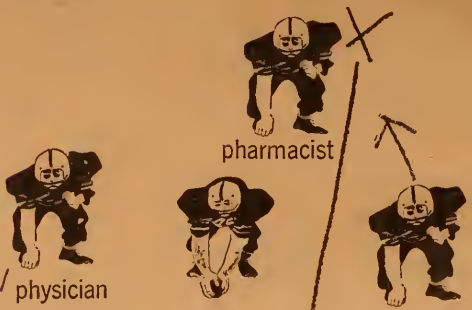
PHARMACY—part of your health team



It is not by chance that your pharmacist has the proper drug ready for you when your physician prescribes it. The American people today enjoy a level of health far higher than ever before, and a large part of it may be attributed to the dramatic advances made by the "health team": pharmacist, physician and prescription drug manufacturer.

We call the complex process by which a drug moves from manufacturer to patient "the miracle of drug distribution." The teamwork of prescription drug manufacturer, drug wholesaler and pharmacist assures that you will receive the medicine you need. This miracle of drug distribution —the fact that the medicine you need is in your community pharmacy when you need it—is just one reason why prescriptions are today's best bargains.
